Custom stainless steel door

Razor Creative's corporate logo is a razor blade and we were asked to design the door to look identical to a 3'x7' razor blade in stainless steel. The polishing process Apex used enhanced the natural beauty of the stainless steel and brought out the grains within the steel. You can see the differing grain directions between the razor "handle" and the "blade" (shown in the photo on the left). The detailed construction of the door was extremely challenging due to the nature of the curved openings, but the end product was a beautiful door that met all expectations.

This is just one of many projects that we've done since 1966 in our Steel Door Manufacturing Group.
